A Chronicle of School Life Together

BEFORE OUR EYES WE VIEW THE PANORAMA OF EXPERIENCES THAT REPRESENT TO US SCHOOL LIFE. NO ONE INCIDENT IS TOO SMALL TO REMEMBER AS WE RECALL THE HAPPENINGS THAT HAVE BROUGHT US TOGETHER IN PENN HIGH.

IN CLASSROOMS WE HAVE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN TO THINK FOR OURSELVES. HERE WE HAVE PROFITED BY THE WISDOM OF OUR TEACHERS AS WE MET TOGETHER WITH THEM DAILY.

AFTER SCHOOL HOURS WE LOOKED FORWARD TO THE ACTIVITIES OF CLUBS AND GROUPS. AT THAT TIME WE PARTICIPATED IN THE GAMES, PARTIES, AND DANCES THAT ARE SUCH A REMEMBERED PART OF OUR SCHOOL LIFE TOGETHER.

NOW AS WE COME TO THE PARTING, AS WE PREPARE TO GO OUR SEPARATE WAYS, WE ARE HAPPY TO LOOK BACK OVER THESE TWELVE YEARS OF SATISFYING EXPERIENCES THAT WE HAVE ENJOYED TOGETHER.

To the Class of 1947:

During the past year there has been a persistent tendency among people to despair of the status of both our domestic and foreign conditions. To those who have become completely convinced of the hopelessness and futility of our situation there can come only unhappiness, cynicism, and despondency. Anyone would be an incurable Pollyanna to claim that the picture during the past decade has been pleasant. But the fact remains that the situation is not going to be bettered by those who do nothing but weep over the ruins about them. This is the road to failure. It is the opposite of a stubborn faith—faith in the ability, the willingness, the desire of a new generation to take over the tools of life and with Divine guidance to build a better nation, a better world.

You of the Class of 1947 belong to that new generation. The challenge is yours. May God grant you success of achievement in the struggle to eliminate selfishness, ignorance, greed, misunderstanding, and mistrust among individuals and among nations.

Class of 1947:

You have marched together to your final high school victory, that of graduation. Some of your members have traveled thousands of miles before joining the class of 1947. Working together you are the largest class to have graduated in our fair city. Team work has been a key to success.

As you leave the halls of your high school, you will carry memories of the fine times and fellowship that you have had together. Your diplomas will be a reminder that you have successfully completed the requirements for graduation of the District and the Commonwealth. It will place you in a family of several thousand graduates (alumni).

We wish everyone happiness in the days following graduation, whether it be in a factory, on a farm, in college, in a store, as a homemaker, or in some other chosen vocation.

Sincerely yours,

SWING BAND

Librarian, Peter Rowley

Director, Mr. Colonna

SWING BAND

A fifteen piece swing band was organized this year by Mr. Colonna...It was much in demand for school dances...Attractive music stands were made for the band by Mr. Snyder's shop classes...The student body, accustomed to records at all the dances, appreciated the music of this group.

Vets' Club

Something of a novelty in our school this year is the newly organized Vets' Club. The club is composed of veterans who have served in every branch of the service in every corner of the earth and have since returned to Penn High School to finish their education.

The group formed an independent basketball team, calling themselves "The Rams." They played a heavy schedule, making a flashy appearance on the floor in their new maroon and gold uniforms. During the year the Vets also sponsored a number of successful dances.

Regular meetings were held each Friday during the fifth period with officers: president, Robert Ferry; vice president, Richard Love; secretary-treasurer, Richard Everall. Their capable adviser was Mr. Sherwood, recently returned to the faculty from service with the Air Corps in Europe.

Within the club many old friendships were renewed and new ones were formed. We are truly proud of these fellows who have represented Penn High around the world.

Gridiron Games

The opening game of the 1946 football season took us to Meadville. Halting two determined drives just short of pay dirt and scoring in three of the four quarters, the Bulldogs defeated us.

Playing a highly inspired and definitely improved brand of football, Penn High gridders held the heavily favored Farrell Night Riders to a one-touchdown margin in a night game at the valley city. While this game marked the Trojan's second defeat, the highly improved form of Edgar Snyder's proteges was very encouraging.

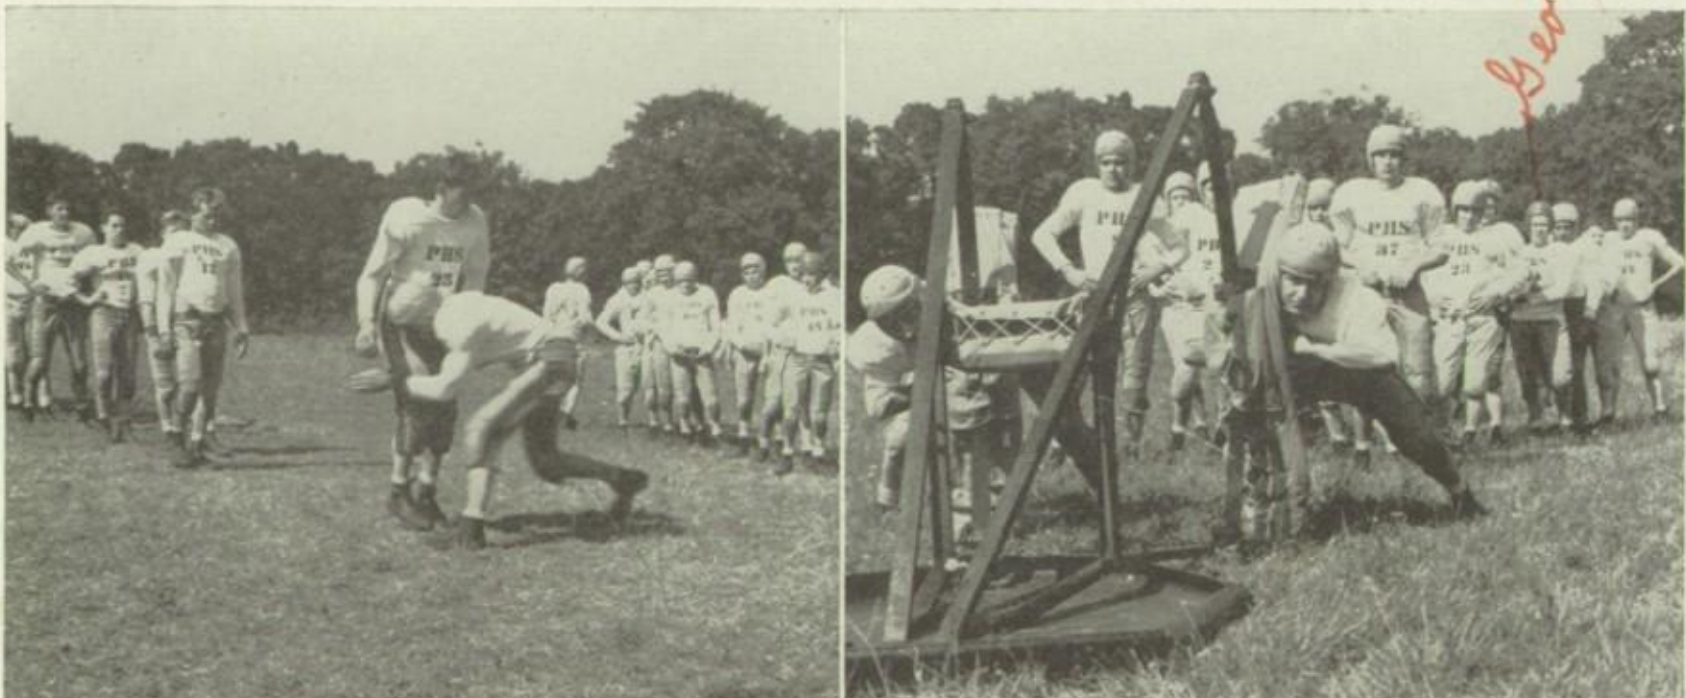

The Blue and Golds' initial home appearance was ruined by the Hubbard visitors. Even though we held a 7-5 margin in first downs, our foes capitalized on several breaks to score three times. The scores resulted from long runs following several fumbles and a pass interception.

At our second home game the Trojans battled Titusville to a scoreless deadlock. Our team's offense was greatly improved in this game, but we just couldn't get up enough steam to drive across the visitor's goal line. Although we entered the game as underdog on a comparative basis, we were, without a doubt, the better team.

We were on the way to spoiling the Eagle's homecoming as we played them off their feet in the first half. Herb DuMars had the honor of making our first touchdown when he crossed the goal line in the second quarter. After we had held a 6 to 0 margin going into the fourth and final quarter, the Grovers scored two touchdowns.

Rain and defeat spoiled our homecoming as Franklin eked out a 7 to 6 verdict at our last home game. We nearly upset the powerful Franklin eleven by driving deep into the visitors' territory in the waning minutes of the game. In fact Penn High dominated the entire fourth quarter action. Our second touchdown of the season was scored by Duard Reichard at the climax of a 94 yard drive.

Getting in Shape at Football Camp

George Nelson

The Hickory Hornets handed us a 13 to 0 setback on the Sharpville athletic field. For their first touchdown the Hornets took to the air lanes. Their second score was made by a plunge over left guard. The only threat that we made came when Reichard took over the toting department, gaining thirteen, three, two, and seven yards respectively.

In the next game our boys felt the effect of being outweighed ten pounds per man by the Ellwood City footballers. We staved off several early drives, but the Wolverines registered a safety and a touchdown in the second period, then added a final marker in the last period.

The Trojans suffered a 25 to 0 drubbing at the hands of undefeated and untied Sharpville High gridders. Fans who saw this game were loud in their praise of John Cianci who turned in an outstanding piece of work in his last game for our Alma Mater. Although we lost our final game, the boys made the Blue Devils work doubly hard for every inch of ground they gained. With this encounter at Sharpville the Trojans closed the curtains on their 1946 gridiron campaign.

Although our football record was not a very impressive one, the boys never gave up. Even when they were losing the game, they continued to fight valiantly. We owe this year's team our deepest gratitude for upholding the traditional standards of fair play and good sportsmanship. There was never a harder fighting team than this year's eleven. Our team was one of the best defensive teams in Mercer County since they had only one hundred twenty-six points scored against them. Our team was not up to par because of the inexperienced backfield and the lack of avoirdupois of the entire eleven. Moreover, we had some of the toughest competition in Northwestern Pennsylvania. In view of this, it is safe to say that we had a successful year, not in the number of games won but in our team's stubborn and determined fighting spirit.

Court Contests

The familiar sound of the referee's whistle, cheering fans, and swishing nets started the Penn High hoopsters of the 1946-7 basketball season off right. Our very first game resulted in a 52-30 victory over West Middlesex. Matt Detelich poured sixteen points through the hoops, thus capturing scoring honors for the evening.

Franklin managed to edge the Trojans by a 40-36 decision in a nerve-wracking contest on the Thiel floor. We led the game until the fourth quarter when the Nurserymen outscored us fourteen to five to put them out in front. In our next two games we smothered the Meadville cagers by a score of 42-24, and the Trojans suffered their second defeat, dropping a 39-33 verdict to the Oil City courtmen on the latter's home boards.

After a Christmas vacation layoff the Trojans took on a veteran Alumni quintet and edged them 36-34. Then we dropped a hotly contested 44-36 decision to Mercer in our initial Mercer County Basketball League game.

Our next game, which was with Grove City, was a thriller—one that will never be forgotten. With only a moment to play we were two points behind, then just before the final whistle Red Riley came through with a field goal to save the day, tying the score 34-34. This made an overtime period necessary. A foul conversion in the last second by Duard Reichard tied the game again at 38 all. Then in a "sudden death" overtime period Matt Detelich's long field goal gave the Penn High Trojans a 40-38 triumph over the Eagles on their home floor.

We were victorious in the next two games, repeating over West Middlesex 36-24, and avenging an earlier defeat, turning back Oil City by a 39-36 decision.

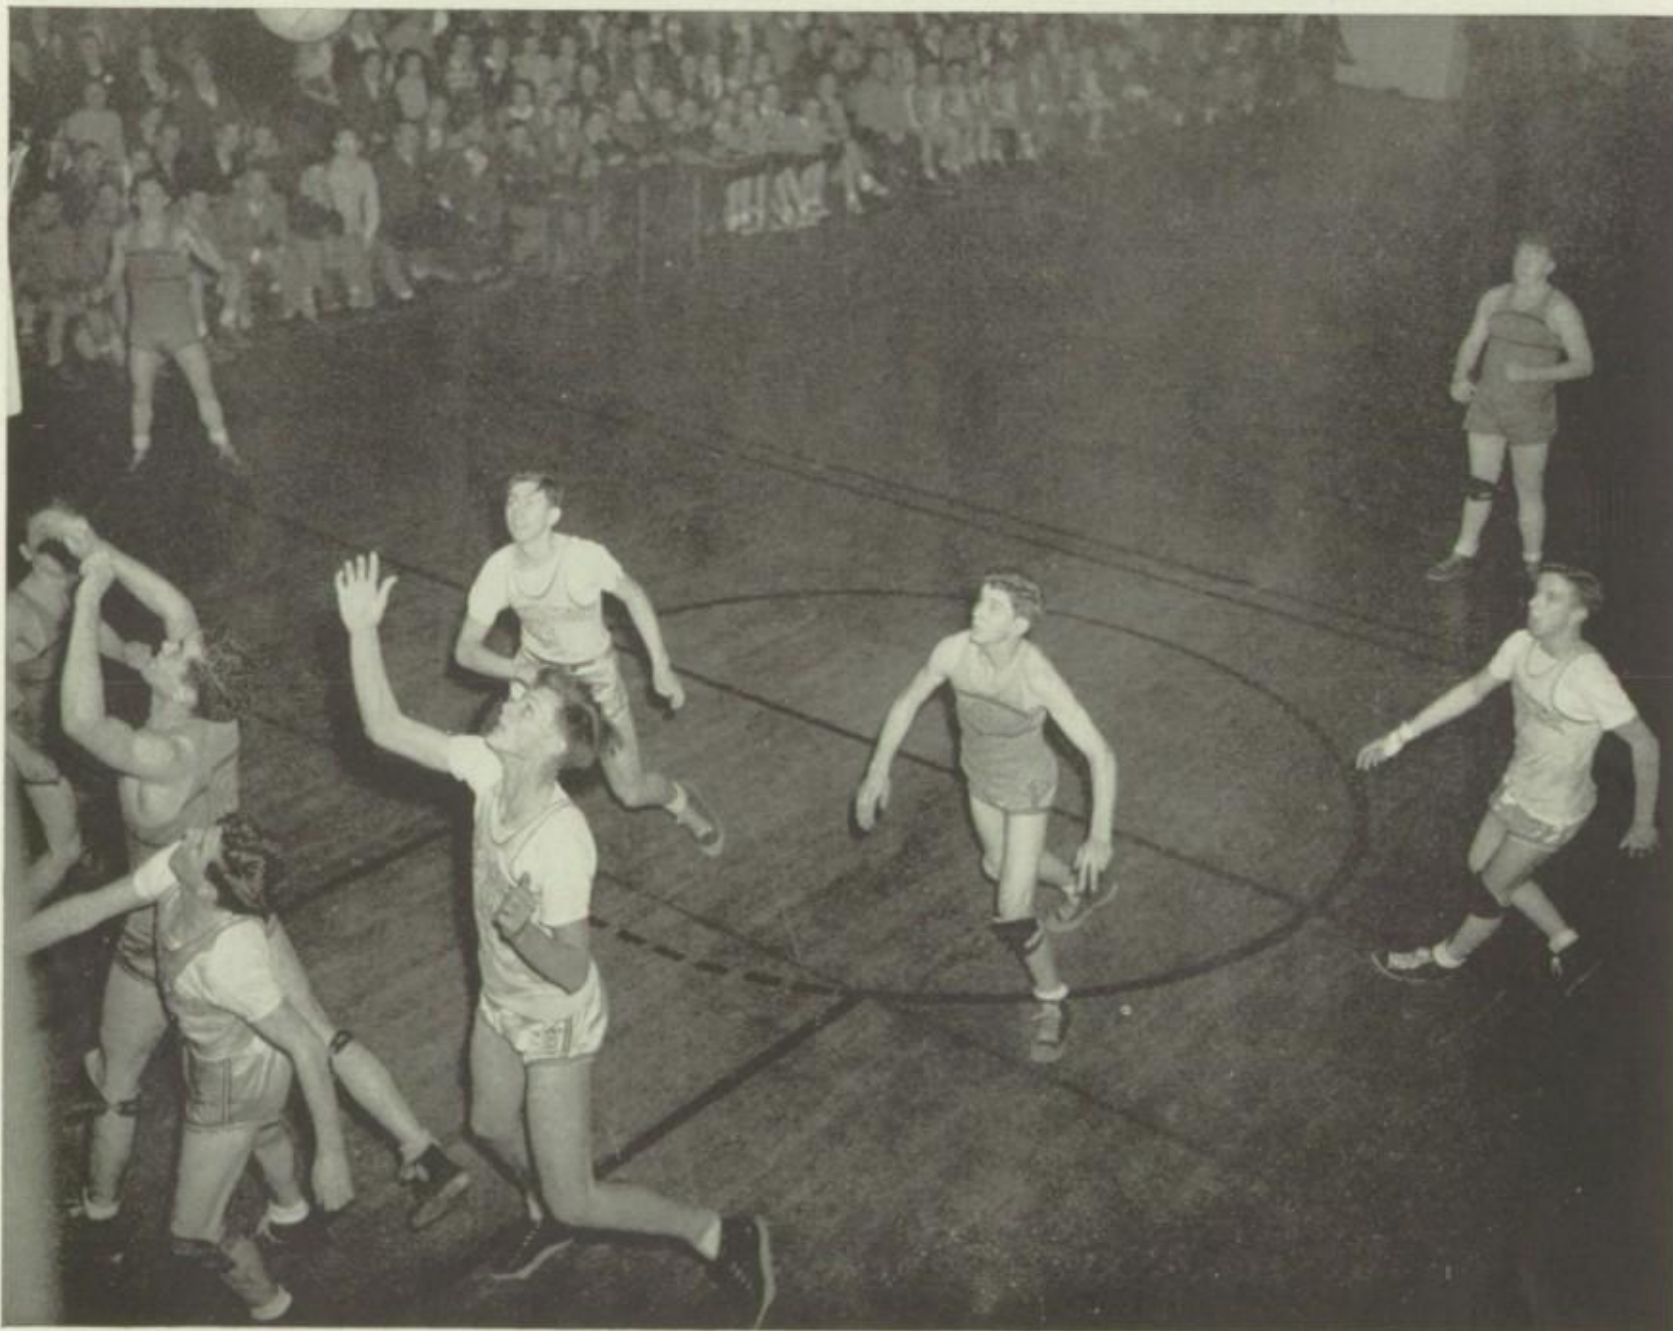

Our first Class "A" league defeat was administered by Sharpsville to the tune of a 41-26 score. The visiting Blue Devils moved into first place as they watched many of our shots go in and bounce right back out again. Our luck was definitely negative as we absorbed another reverse at the hands of the Hickory Hornets. Even though Matt Detelich sparked the team with eighteen points we were on the short end of a 43-35 score as the final whistle blew. Our losing streak continued as we traveled to Mercer and dropped another league game. We faded in the final quarter and the Mustangs proceeded to win 48-42.

In our game with Franklin we not only snapped our losing streak but avenged an earlier setback downing them 48-43. The Trojans then continued their winning ways by drubbing Erie Tech 52-39. We continued to avenge former losses with a surprise victory over Hickory. The Trojans showed their true style in building up a big margin and maintaining it throughout the whole game.

All hopes of our winning the Class "A" championship were lost as the Sharpsville Blue Devils defeated us 54-37 on their home floor. Bob Madden played exceptionally good ball and turned in twelve points for the Blue and Golds.

The season closed with two home games. In the first of these we trounced Grove City 56-28. Matt Detelich led the scoring attack with eighteen points and Red Riley followed up with fifteen. This was a big night for our boys as almost everyone figured in the scoring. In our next game we won an easy victory as we rolled over the Meadville Bulldogs by a 48-22 decision. We got off to a slow start, but as the game progressed we gained momentum and scored thirty-two points to the Bulldogs' eight in the second half.

The season's end saw our team with a record of eleven games won and seven lost. Matt Detelich, senior forward, led the team in scoring by pouring two hundred thirty-four points through the hoops. This gave him exactly a thirteen point average. Duard Reichard was next in line with one hundred sixty-three points. We had an exceptionally good ball-passing team this year. Every member deserves a big hand for his contribution to the success of this season. Our team would not have had nearly so successful a season had they not been led by Coach Snyder. This is Mr. Snyder's first postwar coaching year following his return from the South Pacific. The team and the student body really appreciate the excellent job he has done.

Coach Melvin Berry, just back from service in the South Pacific, did a fine job with the wrestling team this year. The team won five matches and lost four. Sam Gano, 103 pounds, went the entire season without losing one match. Since he won a District Ten championship, he went to Kingston to wrestle for the state championship along with Dominic Marks, 112 pounds, and Norman Lenkner, 120 pounds, who also won district championships. Next year's team will have to be built without the services of Dick Everall, Jim Banic, Bob Sweigard, Dan Titzel, Bob Peterson, and Roland Emmett.

Due to the team's light batting average, we won only a few games. Nevertheless, our baseball nine was superior in fielding ability. The Trojan's enthusiastic coach, Arthur Stewart, helped to promote a new interest in baseball.

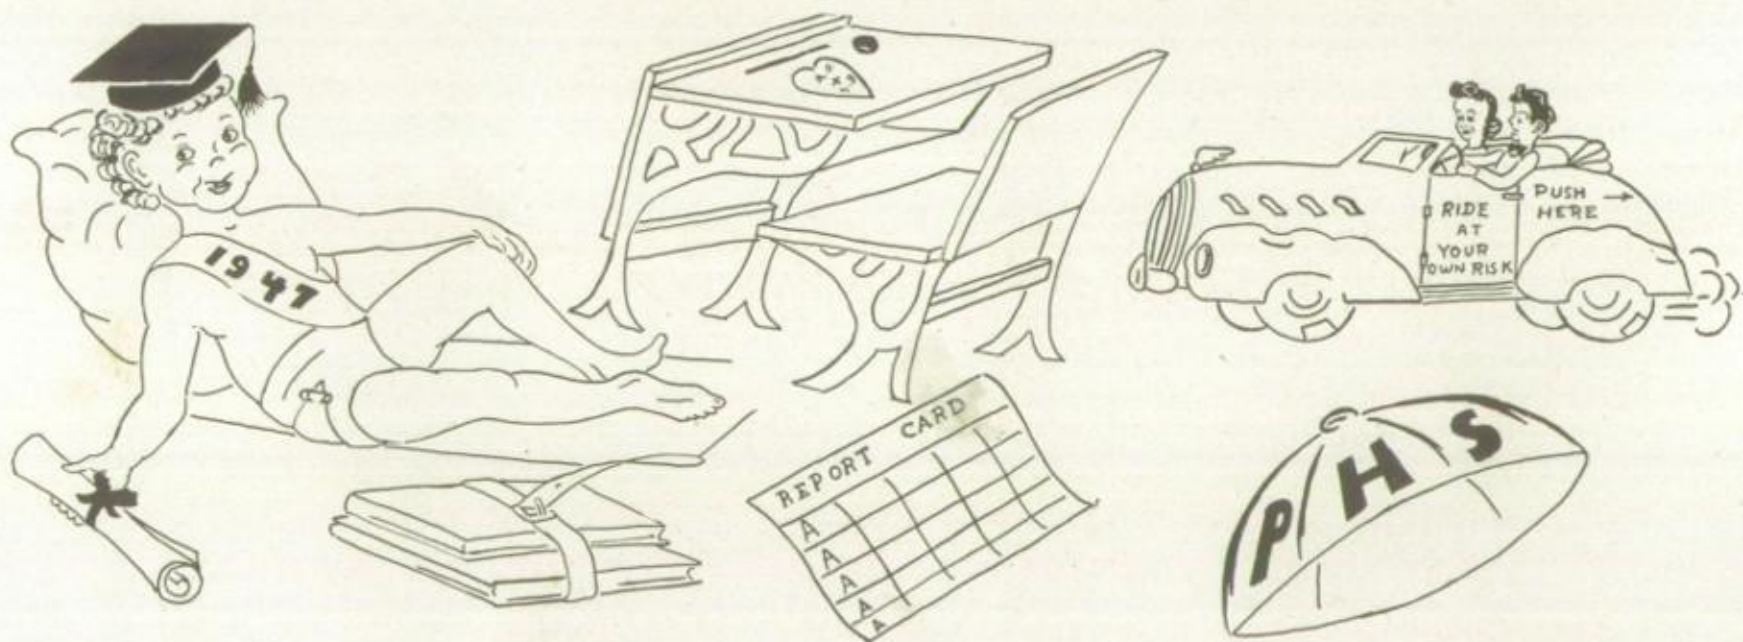

Members of the team from the class of '47 are: Joe Sucic, Bob Peterson, Dick Eastlick, and Jim Banic.

Together In Penn High

We will always remember our school days together. As we think back over the many happy times we had, we can't help but recall the very first year that many of us came to Penn High.

We entered school as frightened freshmen, lost in a maze of halls and classrooms. With opportunity for selecting our own subjects, we found ourselves in the throes of algebra and "discipuli picturam spectate." Lessons occupied most of our time, but we enjoyed some activities. How could we forget our freshman class party! Members of the class displayed their talents in a special program, and later we all joined in group games and dancing.

The modern version of Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream, written and directed by David Neighbour, added a stimulating note to the aspect of future dramatics. For many of us this was our first glimpse of that magical fairyland of drama—backstage.

In the world outside, family cars were being operated on two gallons of gas a week, and Ration Book 4, which we are still using, was issued. Everyone, old and young alike, was singing "Mairzy Doats." These were the days of the Teeny Tavern too. Everyone knew everyone else at this youth center which was all our own.

The summer passed very quickly, and soon again we were thronging the halls of Penn High as studious sophomores and members of senior high. A schedule of five subjects and an expanded extra-curricular program kept us busier than ever before. Latin II saw almost the same group that had taken first year Latin, but plane geometry class was endowed with new and numerous faces. Biology class offered an outlet for our creative abilities in the dissection of worms and frogs.

The suddenness of winter brought with it a snow storm that closed the schools for several days. Huge drifts of snow and deep ruts on the streets impeded traffic. The standing joke at that time was, "Which rut do I take to Camp Reynolds?"

The Senior Hi-Y sponsored its annual Spring Formal in May, and many of us attended this dance. The array of pastel gowns added a definite touch of spring to this gala event.

The fleeting months soon brought September and new responsibilities for us as juniors. Early in the year room 308 was the scene of our class election, and we chose Noble Zuschlag, president; Mark Landfried, vice president; Annice Haugh, secretary; Donna Mitchell, treasurer. Mrs. Landreth, our adviser, helped us in the selection of our class rings, which were ordered immediately.

As was the custom of previous years, our class sold stationery as a project to earn money for financing the junior-senior prom.

"TWO GENTLEMEN AND VERONA"

Verona Wood, Nancy Cooke; Clyde Colby, Bill Ghost; Mrs. Buxton, Mary Funk; Sarah Brown, Betty Lou Fox; Marg O'Reilly, Annice Haugh; Neila Lansing, Gloria Bannister; Flo Anderson, Mary Rose Hittle; Mike Turner, George McGinnis; Maude, Agnes Hause; Charlie Adams, Bud Cunningham; Bill Kennedy, Don Gardner; Milton J. Sweezy, Dave Neighbour; Script Girl, Joan Stoeber.

Activities made up only a part of our busy schedule, for with our junior year came our initiation into modern foreign languages—French for some and Spanish for others. In English classes we began learning poetry, which led to the popular question, "Have you said your memory 'germs' yet?"

Of course we were interested in athletics but when several boys from our own class were prominent on the football field, we actually became eager fans. The Varsity "G" organization conducted its yearly election to choose the football queen and her attendants. Two members of our class were chosen as attendants, Nancy Cooke and Pat McCall.

Our talents in music and dramatics were also given an opportunity for expression in the form of the "Gay Nineties Revue", written and directed by Mr. Colonna.

In February Miss Thompson held tryouts for the junior class play, and many eager "would-be" actors and actresses awaited the outcome. A cast of twelve was chosen for the play Two Gentlemen and Verona, and practices started immediately.

The plot of this comedy involved several movie-struck people who had organized a summer theater group called the Red Barn Players. Their attempts to impress a talent scout led to many humorous incidents. All were led a merry chase until Brownie finally got a movie contract and Verona an engagement ring.

Early in the spring we began to make definite arrangements for the annual prom which the juniors gave for the seniors. Committees were chosen to find an orchestra, to arrange for general plans, and to decorate the U. S. O. building for the dance. All committees worked zealously, and the decorating committee could be seen hurrying to and fro in Zuschlag's truck as they attempted to gather the lumber and props necessary for carrying out plans for the decorations. The very evening of the dance found members of this committee still busy as they made last minute arrangements and hastily shifted a tree from one place to another.

For weeks ahead the juniors and seniors had been getting their dates for this dance. Finally when the long awaited evening arrived, girls in long flowing gowns with beautiful corsages pinned to their dresses or in their hair, and boys handsomely dressed in their best suits, arrived at the prom in a glow of excitement. A white picket fence covered with tiny rose buds surrounded the dance floor which was arranged as a garden scene. A decorative bridge over a realistic stream had to be crossed before going onto the floor. Expressions of delight could be heard from all directions, and we definitely considered our prom a success.

THE PROM

Final tests and the receiving of report cards made us seniors at last. We were all conscious of the fact that this would be our last year as a class together. This thought brought a note of sadness into the otherwise very gay plans for our senior year.

Our class was soon organized again, and Noble Zuschlag became our president for the second time. His aids were Dan Callahan, vice president; Joan Stoeber, secretary; and Peter Rowley, treasurer. Mrs. Wallace was appointed as our class adviser, and her leadership and suggestions were very helpful to us throughout the year.

To build up our treasury again, the class voted enthusiastically to sell magazines, and we found some excellent salesmen in our midst. Marie Stantes was the best salesman for the girls, and Dave Sankey came through for the boys. The campaign was a huge success, and our depleted treasury took on a rosier aspect as we put nearly seven hundred dollars into it.

Plans for the year's activities got under way with the selection of a Pennerian staff. The members started to work immediately. The last part of October Miss Thompson chose the seventeen people who were to make up the cast of the senior class play.

Don't Take My Penny was the story of an average family with the mother too busy to pay attention to her children and the father too absorbed in his work to notice them. The crazy antics of a pretty daughter intent on getting into the movies and a farm-minded brother with his heart set on raising chickens provided enough hilarity to keep everyone in stitches. The love interest was added by a maid who was struggling to make a movie comeback. Finally the difficulties were straightened out, and the family became peaceful once more.

Soon the first semester drew to a close, and we were aware that half the school year was already finished. Our interests were now turning to the future as we made plans for college and future vocations. Guidance in this direction was given to us through interest tests and personal interviews. A few tried their skill at scholarship examinations.

All too soon commencement activities got under way. First came the prom at which we were the guests of the junior class. On the following Sunday The Reverend Mr. Shumaker spoke to us at our Vesper service. A note of sadness crept into our hearts as we thought of our senior farewell party, for we realized that our days of being together were nearly over. Then came the night of Commencement which was the last time that we were together as the Class of '47.

The Will

We, the members of the Senior Class of 1947, having been blessed with numerous and unusual talents, desire to bestow a few of these gifts upon some less fortunate ones who, with these unfailing aids, we hope, will uphold the standards and ideals of our Alma Mater.

To the faculty we bequeath a box of aspirin to help relieve the strain to their nerves caused by our vigorous mental pursuits.

To the janitors we leave the hope that next year's seniors will leave their home rooms and classrooms as orderly as ours have been found.

To the underclassmen we surrender our esteemed position as seniors with all the rights and privileges thereof, our vast category of marvelous virtues, our brilliant and scholarly minds, our clever knack for dis-entangling ourselves from various and sundry predicaments, and lastly, our ingeniousness in attaining the singular honor of being the most illustrious class ever to graduate from Penn High.

Individually, we bestow our worldly possessions as follows:

1. Eunice Mumford gives Donnie Patterson a bit of her self-reliance.
2. Gale Knapp leaves his interest in tow-heads to "the gentlemen who prefer blondes."
3. Harold Scott's unearthly questions in solid geometry are left for Dale Montgomery to answer.
4. Edithmae Kelso yields her bulging brief case to Mr. Crowther for filing his absentee lists.
5. Gleniss Baer wills a wad of gum to Bill Riffer to help prove her theory that chewing gum while studying helps to keep your thoughts together.
6. Ray Travaglini's search for a pencil with brains instead of an eraser passes on to Red Riley.
7. To Nancy Booth, Dan Callahan wills his wrestling tights for use in defense backstage.
8. Roland Mitchell leaves his highly esteemed position as president of the Woman Haters' Club to Bob Hart.
9. Audrey Trezona presents Donna Gilmore with her knowledge of chemical formulas.
10. Matt Detelich shares his indescribable appearance of innocence with Joe Pierce. (Won't he be surprised!)
11. Jack Mayer bestows a spare storage battery upon Woody Woodworth who'll get a shock out of it.
12. To Jim Cooper, Ruth Knapp leaves her passion for spaghetti.
13. Mary Detelich wills her fondness for bookkeeping to Etta Raysor.
14. Bud Cunningham bequeaths his favorite book Get Tough to Jack Beil.
15. Margaret Galekovic allows Mildred Smith to have her reservation on the school bus each day.
16. Dan Titzel imparts his interest in a variety of sports to Alva Baker.
17. Dick Eperthener presents his newly acquired dancing ability to Paul Pilgram.
18. Irma McCoy inherits Harriett Gill's place in the home economics class.
19. Mary Reigelman shares her flaming locks with Sally Davis.
20. Noble Zuschlag grants his unrivaled popularity to Don Aubel.
21. David Neighbour hands his vast category of jokes over to Junior Marks.
22. To Dick Hillman, Ruth Mowery leaves her well modulated voice.
23. Leon Spargo surrenders his fun in study hall to Hugh McCright.

32. Treva Roberts gives her ability to amuse others to Diane Whittenberger.
33. Phil Scibetta shares his nickname, "Skip," with Gloria Krichbaum.
34. Dotty Meeker is the recipient of Katherine Garts' dilapidated gym basket.
35. Bill Barney's crew cut passes on to Tom Banic.
36. Pete Haynes surrenders his loud red jacket to Bud Sullivan.

37. John Bailey gives his violin which is badly in need of four new strings to Paul Moore.
38. Bob Mandeville gives his surplus knowledge of trigonometric functions to Bob Lenkner.
39. Jack Waite inherits Don Royal's red hunting cap so that he may distinguish himself from the game in hunting season.
40. Pat Moyer shares her over-abundance of vitality with Evelyn Koston.
41. Esther Schumann yields her quiet but efficient way of doing things to Joyce Lee.
42. Donna Mitchell gives her enviable possession of the family car to Nancy Saylor.
43. To Bill Stewart goes Ted Menold's knack for making paper airplanes and his perfect aim in sailing them through an open window.
44. Ed Benton imparts his unusual ability to create bedlam to Christabel Hunt.
45. Elizabeth Gamble entrusts Joanne Schugardt with her gold sweater to wear at all the games.
46. Betty Fox leaves her love for "treading the boards" to Katherine Zarecky.
47. Jack McGrath wills his deep bass voice to anyone aspiring to be a stand-in for John Charles Thomas.
48. Elsie Garts gladly gives her susceptibility to hypnotism to Barbara Mortensen.
49. Joann Stuyvesant bestows her black babushka upon Ella Babcock.
50. Keith LeBarron's ways of getting around are left to Duard Reichard.
51. Marie Stantes bequeaths her favorite hang-outs around school to Barbara Tuck.

55. Roberta Babcock allots her place among the shorter ones in the class to Maurice Eddy.
56. Catherine Ansell imparts her shy manner to Dorothy Humphrey.
57. Dick Eastlick unwillingly surrenders his mischievous antics to Forrest Rohr.
58. Gloria Bannister leaves her naive remarks to Louis Mazzeo.
59. Wilbur Harry wills his fondness for arguing in class and his round-about proofs to Steve Letonek.
60. Annice Haugh bestows her sparkling personality upon Olivia Kohler.
61. Wilma Arbanas's frequent trips to Youngstown pass on to Sally Beil.
62. David Allen bequeaths his position as after school delivery boy to Bunny Pfaff.
63. Mark Landfried leaves his winning ways with the women for Larry Daley to puzzle over.
64. Bob Madden presents his favorite stocking cap to Donnie Campbell.
65. Betty Zuschlag happily turns her well worn English book over to Bertha Kitch.
66. Emily Roth surrenders her knack for getting the right answers in all the daily quizzes to Shirley Smith.
67. Upon Joan Reinhart is bestowed Phyllis Kameron's delight in the latest movies.
68. Dick Everall agrees to let Don McGinnis have his unusual interest in football.
69. Shirley Dingman imparts her concealed humor to Nancy Greenawalt.
70. Joe Sucic leaves a fund for Frank Filer to purchase a cushion for his study hall comfort.
71. To Herb DuMars goes Bob Peterson's budding genius in song writing.

The Class of '47 Visits a Haunted House

'Tis the afternoon before Commencement, and the Class of '47 decides to visit a haunted HAUSE. The dark CLOUDs are EVERALL, and not a RAY of sunshine pe 's through. Could there be a MOYER perfect day for the ROYAL Class of '47 to GAMBLE their lives in the HUNT for a GHOST? Wishing it were a LA SALLE, we pile into our MUMFORD, broken AXTELL, worn SPARGO plugs and all, BENTON GETTIG there by TRAVAGLINI leaps and bounds. We decide there will be no BILLIG or cooing, and no KNAPPING. SYLING along the back roads, we come to an old BAER, BROWN HAUSE, high on a hill overlooking LeBARRON MEADORS. Then we get stuck in the MYER-So, MEEKER than lambs, we start walking. There are TREZONA PFAFF, making the going mighty rough. We LEEP a FOX hole, a SPLITSTONE, and scare a NEIGHBOUR and his SHEPARD dog.

Somebody hollers, "Don't nobody get MADDEN go home now! Come on, gang, let's get started! Great SCOTT, this place is kind of LYON on its side a little, EAVES ALL-EN pieces, BAIRD of everything except cobwebs. Now we know why they don't try AN-SELL it—HITTLE fall apart soon." BURT does all this stop us? No! FRANTZey us quitting! We'll walk WRIGHT in! But something's screwy, and though we sing, "Open the Door, ROBERTS," we must pick the LOCKE. Some SWEIGARD in, but they come back out fast HOLLERAN, "UBER not go in there. There is a RUSSELL in that HAUSE! Maybe it's the GHOST pROWLEYng around!" "Oh, HECKER," we say, "KAMERER, and we'll all go in! It is doubtless an EDDYing breeze." "All right, but you stART-MAN!" HARPST someone. "McGIN-NIS sakes, it's sc-HARRY in here." "GOODLIN gracious, I should have worn my SMOCK instead of this TAYLORed suit; I'll get black as a COLEMAN."

Suddenly we see the BANNISTER, and the fellows make a BEE line for the top of the stairs. One of them KLINGEN-to-SMITH slides down FOUST, and the rest follow. ROHRing like REDMOND, they are DULEY found LYON at the bottom of the stairs. Just as we start a tour of the house, a door bangs, a board squeaks, the room GROCE cold, and a bat DARTs through. We stand terrified, McCUTCH-EON each other and a little GREEN around the GILLs. One of the girls nearly KEELEYs over when she thinks we LEFFLER alone. Then looking up, we see—the GHOST! At the sight of him, we brave seniors make a mad dash for the door. The GHOST laughs to himself, "HAUGH, HAUGH!" and disappears, his job WELDON.

What a DILLEY of an afternoon! We have a WALEFF a time, but the next day we are all SUCIC and ALBAUGHed up. Some have pHAYNES in their CHESSts and we all have AIKEN muscles. We are too weary even to EMMETT a sigh and so exhausted we almost miss Commencement.

Limericks

Over a record with drums Bud has fits,
By the hour he listens and sits.
At us he does scoff
If we say, "Turn it off,"
He insists that it sharpens his wits.

There was a young man named Neighbour
Who put in some strenuous labor
Insulting Miss Funk
Who called him a punk
And chased him around with a saber.

He's the apple of every girl's eye;
They think he's a marvelous guy.
But Noble's not dumb—
He's been out with some—
He figures they're not worth a sigh.

There was a bright fellow named Sankey
Who picked up a young lady's hankey;
When he saw her face,
He ran at great pace,
Next time he'll take care, won't you Sankey?

With a girl at the fountain Roy flirted;
In a twinkling he found himself squirted.
No more thirsty is he
For things weaker than tea;
By him the fountain is cautiously skirted.

There was a young chemist named Kremm
Who grabbed a test tube by its stem;
An explosion occurred,
And just like a bird,
Out flew our young chemist named Kremm.
